Our Military Kids Celebrates 100,000th Activity Award: Gavin's Story

At the end of 2025, Our Military Kids (OMK) marked a major milestone: 100,000 activity awards given to military children and teens across the country since 2004, worth a total of $36 million.

Our Military Kids recognized nine-year-old Gavin as the 100,000th activity award recipient. During his mother's Air National Guard deployment, Gavin used Our Military Kids activity awards to pay for his hockey fees. His sister, Aisla, also received activity awards to cover dance costs.

"Gavin was over the moon and became very emotional about the activity awards," their mother, Jaimee, told us. "It really does show what this program does for the kids, especially during a vulnerable time in their lives. This was especially helpful during a time of uncertainty, with the government shutdown and my being overseas."

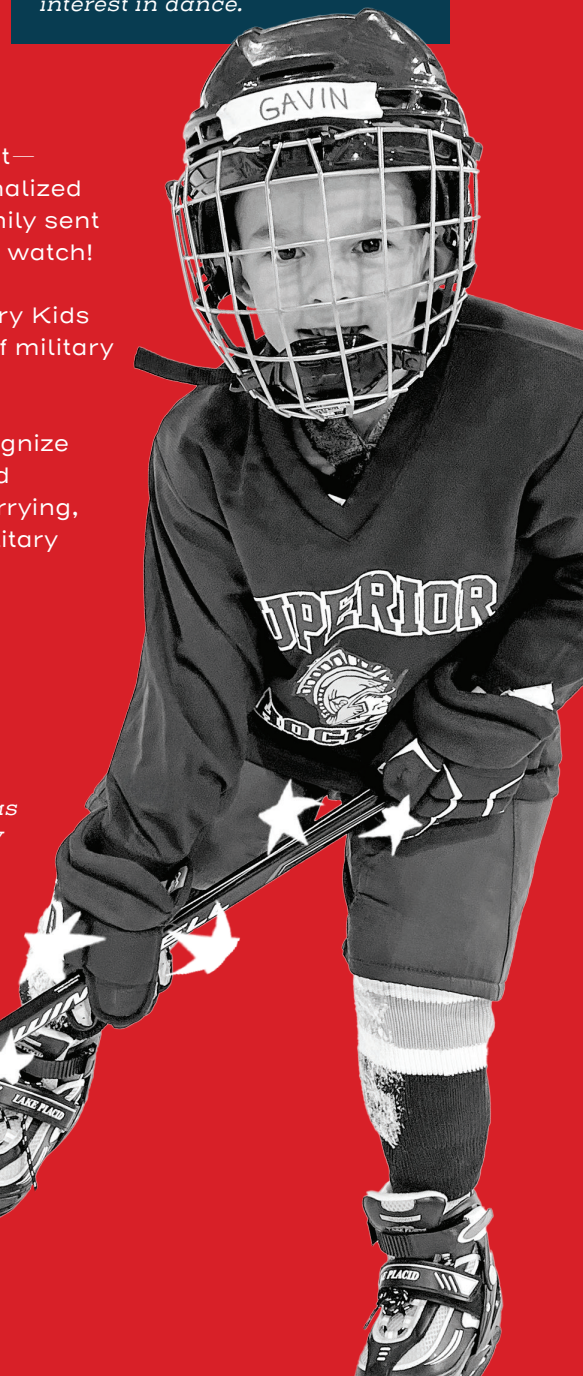

Moved by the impact of receiving his activity award packet—which came not only with a check for hockey but a personalized award certificate, dog tags, patch, and more—Gavin's family sent in a video expressing their gratitude. Scan the QR code to watch!

This milestone was made possible through the generosity of Our Military Kids funders and partners, whose dedication lights the way for thousands of military families navigating hardship and variability.

As Our Military Kids celebrates 100,000 activity awards given, we recognize that this crucial work is not done. With thousands of families serving and receiving combat-injury care, there are even more children waiting, worrying, and needing a reminder that their sacrifices are never forgotten. Our Military Kids stands steadfast in supporting these families for the next 100,000 activities and beyond.

Gavin's sister, Aisla, used activity awards to pursue her interest in dance.

Gavin's enthusiasm for hockey was a point of connection for his family during his mother's deployment.

Dear Friends of Our Military Kids,

In 2025, Our Military Kids smashed through a thrilling milestone: We gave our 100,000th activity award to a military child.

This achievement is the product of 22 years of vision, leadership, and hard work from a multitude of supporters, including board members, funders, staff, and volunteers. As we celebrated 100,000 activity awards—totaling $36 million in funding—we used a star-spangled theme with the tagline, “Every Star Is a Story.” 100,000 is an important number that holds much significance for the organization, but the true impact of that number comes from the stories behind each of those activity awards.

One of those stories is the powerful effect Our Military Kids has on the health and wellness of the military families we serve. When children use activity awards, the entire family benefits—mentally, physically, socially, and emotionally. In 2026, 96% of Our Military Kids families surveyed saw a positive impact on overall family wellbeing; 92% noted a positive impact on service member or Veteran morale; and the morale of civilian parents and guardians jumped 10 points from 83% to 93% over the previous year.

Recently, one of our Combat Injured Program mothers emailed us with an update. Her daughter received numerous activity awards over the years as her husband receives care for combat-related injuries. This mom—a Veteran herself—illuminated the importance of activity awards for her entire family through this joyful message:

“Since receiving the [activity] awards my daughter has been on another level of gratitude and happiness! She is truly living her best life getting to enjoy new things and balancing school and lacrosse. And she continues to show her appreciation towards us (her parents) in the kindest ways! We are so overjoyed by how impactful these grants have been to our family and the community around us!”

The 100,000th award could not come at a more apropos time. In 2025, we launched our five-year strategic growth plan, outlining four goals that will propel us into the next decade. Our strategic plan gives us the roadmap to build on Our Military Kids’ purpose, mission, and identity so that we can continue expanding our capacity to serve the military community.

As our Nation marks the 25th anniversary of September 11, we are reminded of Our Military Kids’ beginnings as a response to the mass deployment of National Guard and Reserve service members in the wake of this national tragedy. Our Military Kids has expanded in the last two decades, but our values—trust, empowerment, compassion, and duty—continue to be our North Star as we chart our path forward.

We are grateful for your support of Our Military Kids and the children and families we serve. We cannot do this vital work without you. We invite you to join us as we embark on the next 100,000 activity awards impacting thousands of military kids.

With heartfelt appreciation and excitement for the future,

SUPPORTING KIDS, SUPPORTING FAMILIES

Our Military Kids proudly stands by the families of National Guard and Reserve service members throughout overseas deployments and stateside activations on named missions. By funding the activities that give their children the chance to stay engaged, connected, and make memories, the Our Military Kids Deployed Program is a vital resource from send-off to homecoming.

Deployment—even the most planned, expected one—can send shockwaves through a family as they learn to navigate a new normal. 2025 survey responses from beneficiary families demonstrate the positive impacts of Our Military Kids activity awards during these stressful times:

ALEXA: STRENGTH THROUGH THE CHALLENGES OF DEPLOYMENT

Alexa (16) from Florida was selected as the winner of the Our Military Kids 2025 Courageous Kids Contest in the U.S. Army Reserve category. During her father's deployment with the U.S. Army Reserve, Alexa attended an Our Military Kids-funded summer camp that inspired her to volunteer to better her community and step up as a role model for her younger sister.

"She was a model camper, displaying leadership and active participation," said her mother. "Her sportsmanship and kindness were evident as she encouraged others and helped them throughout the week. This led her to serve our community through the S.A.L.T. (Servant and Leadership Training) program, with whom she recently ministered to a local underprivileged community by bringing them food and clothing and working to beautify the area around a newly installed community playground."

Throughout their father's multiple deployments with the Army Reserve, Alexa and her sister, Alora, have each received Our Military Kids activity awards to fund dance and gymnastics as well as summer camp.

"It makes me feel proud to have a dad that serves in the military," Alexa said. "It also means that sometimes I have to be brave and strong not just for myself but also my family."

ALEJANDRO: INSPIRED BY FAMILY, DRIVEN BY PURPOSE

For Alejandro “Jandro” (16), cycling has always been about family and personal healing.

Alejandro is the son of a Marine Corps and Army Veteran and the brother of a Navy Seabee. In 2025, he was selected as an Our Military Kids Courageous Kids Contest winner in the Hidden Helper Hero category. Alejandro supports his father through service-related medical treatments for PTSD, TBI, and spinal and mobility injuries and cares for his older brother, who has a rare, life-threatening disorder.

During his father’s treatment, Alejandro and his family were introduced to adaptive cycling. For the first time in years, the entire family could ride together. Alejandro’s experiences inspired him to challenge himself and dreams of competing in the Tour de France and the UCI Downhill World Cup.

Alejandro volunteers with cycling and adaptive sports nonprofits and the Department of Veterans Affairs, supports fundraising efforts, and participates in high-profile advocacy—including events at the White House.

Alejandro and his siblings have received several Our Military Kids activity awards. The funding supported specialized autistic driver’s education for his brother, aerial circus arts experiences for his sister, and cycling development for Alejandro and his sister. According to Alejandro’s parents:

“Our Military Kids gave our children pieces of their childhood back. In a life shaped by hospitals, appointments, and the weight of caregiving, these [activity awards] created moments where our kids could breathe, grow, and simply be kids. They were seen, valued, and supported in ways that honored who they are as individuals—not just as part of a military family navigating hardship.”

“[Our Military Kids] donors didn’t just give money—they gave freedom. They gave coping tools, healing outlets, and a place for our children to find joy in a world that has often demanded they grow up too fast. We are deeply appreciative and overwhelmingly grateful for the tangible, life-changing support Our Military Kids has provided.”

DAV SPOTLIGHT

A leading national voice for injured and ill service members and their families, Disabled American Veterans (DAV) is a valued Our Military Kids partner. During the first half of 2025, OMK saw a 57% increase in Combat Injured Program activity award applications over the previous year. DAV's generous support helped OMK meet the moment. In 2025, DAV funded 720 activity awards for the children of combat-injured Veterans.

CONNECTING KIDS, CONNECTING FAMILIES

Our Military Kids supports families navigating care for post-9/11 combat-related illnesses and injuries. Through our unique Combat Injured Program, eligible children of injured or ill Veterans and service members can receive five activity awards to fund their extracurricular activities. The program has helped children relieve stress, create memories, find community, and learn something new—while helping to reduce financial strain on the family—for the past 18 years, impacting thousands of children and their families.

Data-informed and compassion-driven, the Combat Injured Program provides more than funding for a child's favorite activity. Survey responses from 2025 beneficiary families illustrate the deep impact activity awards have on the entire household:

CONCERT TO REMEMBER

In 2025, Our Military Kids was selected as one of VetsAid's national grant recipients. In addition, Joe Walsh and VetsAid generously offered Kansan Our Military Kids families complimentary concert tickets. "The concert was incredible," said Eric, a U.S. Marine Corps Veteran and father to an Our Military Kids award recipient. "More than just a show, it was a reminder that there are people and organizations out there who truly care about Veterans and our families. It meant the world to me to feel supported, honored and remembered."

SENIOR LEADERS CONVENE

In 2025, Our Military Kids welcomed senior leaders from the National Guard and Reserve and from nonprofit organizations serving combat-injured Veterans and their families to our Senior Leadership Dinner in Washington, D.C. The evening was a fruitful collaboration among all guests in service to improving experiences for military families and strengthening national readiness.

"The best solutions come from listening. By bringing together leaders with different perspectives and experiences, we strengthen our ability to reach more eligible military families and better serve military children."

– Kara C. Dallman, Executive Director

SUPER EXPERIENCE

In February, an Our Military Kids father-and-son duo headed to Super Bowl LIX for a day of excitement and incredible memories. "A HUGE thank you to the Bob Woodruff Foundation, Our Military Kids, and the NFL for making this unforgettable experience and memory possible for these two!" their family shared on social media. "Your unwavering support for our military members is truly invaluable."

WASHINGTON COMMANDERS SALUTE TO SERVICE PROGRAM

Thanks to an amazing partnership with NFL's Salute to Service and USAA, Our Military Kids beneficiary children and their families were able to attend Military Appreciation Day for the Washington Commanders Training Camp. With a variety of interactive activities, special experiences, and a festive atmosphere throughout the day, families had the opportunity to enjoy time together and create lasting memories. Our Military Kids was honored to be part of the day, thanks to the generosity of USAA and the NFL.

2025 All-Star Partnerships

OUR MILITARY KIDS 2025 TOP FUNDER: KBP FOODS

KBP Foods, one of America's largest franchise operators, remains Our Military Kids' largest annual supporter. In 2025, the company's biannual Charity Coupon Campaign funded a remarkable 22% of all OMK activity awards. This extraordinary impact is made possible by the dedication of KBP Foods employees, managers, and area coaches at KFC restaurants nationwide who sell $1 Charity Coupon Books to benefit military children and families served by Our Military Kids.

"When Mallory's daddy deployed with the Air National Guard, Our Military Kids allowed her to join a dance class," said her mother. "She's thriving in dance and getting to express herself. She is excited for her first dance recital this month. Thank you for your donations to make this happen!"

LOCKHEED MARTIN SUPPORTS MILITARY FAMILY WELLBEING WITH CONTINUED INVESTMENT

For over 20 years, steadfast support from Lockheed Martin has funded thousands of activity awards for military children and teens. In 2025, Lockheed Martin invested in 720 Our Military Kids activity awards, contributing to the improvement of overall military family wellbeing and the strengthening of community connection for kids like Logan and Bryce.

"The boys are both so excited!" their mother, a U.S. Army Veteran spouse, told us. "Thank you so much for helping with their martial arts program!"

USAA EMPLOYEES GIVE BACK THROUGH “SHARE YOUR THANKS” VOLUNTEER EVENTS

In 2025, USAA employees across the Nation took part in “Share Your Thanks” volunteer activations during which they created hundreds of hand-written thank you cards and friendship bracelets to be included in Our Military Kids “Top Secret” award packets. These cards are truly appreciated by parents and children alike, accompanying the activity award certificate, patch, dog tags, and other goodies that came with their award checks.

Since 2006, the USAA Foundation has invested in the activities that military children love, keeping them healthy and thriving in their communities. In 2025, 720 additional activity awards were given thanks to this enduring partnership.

LIDS FOUNDATION GIVES OVER $1 MILLION SINCE 2013

The Lids Foundation has given more than $1.1 million in cumulative donations since 2013. In 2025, their support covered 374 Our Military Kids activity awards for sports, athletic camps, and fitness-related programs during a parent’s deployment or combat-injury care. With the gift of physical activity, children are able to relieve stress, make new friends, and connect with mentors and coaches.

MILITARY TIMES FOUNDATION GIFTS INVALUABLE ADVERTISING

In 2025, the Military Times Foundation donated pro bono digital and print advertising media across Military Times and Defense News magazines, websites, social media channels, and more. This indispensable annual investment plays a crucial role in realizing our strategic goal to become a household name among eligible military families and partners.

WOUNDED WARRIOR PROJECT KEEPS CHILDREN OF VETERANS ACTIVE AND THRIVING
