Max's Journal Entries:

APRIL 2

You said goodbye to me this morning and left. I don't remember what you said. I couldn't concentrate on your words. You are officially gone. It feels like something inside me was ripped out. I don't know what I am going to do without you for eight months.

No more Daddy to greet me when I get home from school. No more Daddy dinners. No more Daddy playtime. No more Daddy homework help. It already seems like you've been gone for a while. What if I forget you? What if I forget the way you look or talk?

I want to answer these questions now. But I must wait eight months for these answers.

(Mommy's telling me to go to sleep. Goodnight Daddy, wherever you are.)

JUNE 7

In total, during the last four months of seventh grade, only about a dozen kids ever mentioned something to me about my father being abroad. I was relieved that so few asked me about my father. I was especially uncomfortable being asked how I was doing by students I didn't know well. I was never sure what to say.

I had no conception of where my father was, or what he was doing, or whether he was in any danger. So how could I answer questions about him with any sincerity?

I envied those students who had two parents at home. I quickly understood what it was like to have only one parent. For much of my time now at home, our family was only three: Mommy, Julia, and me.

OCTOBER 25

I told myself to stay away from the thought that you might not come home. But, at times, the thought did enter my mind. I couldn't help it.

Over time, I kind of got used to you being away. I became more independent and less reliant on my parents. Mommy had me separate my clothes for laundry, take my dishes to the sink, put myself to bed, get ready for school, and do piano on my own. I didn't cook, but was largely left to myself to organize everything else, including homework. I started to see how these and many other small things became important for the family to work while you are away. The more I did, the easier things went. At first, I didn't exactly like it, though over time, they became just routine.

NOVEMBER 22

Today we received packages from our Military Kids, an organization in Virginia that helps kids of service members who are deployed with financial support for activities or sports. Julia got some money to support her dance lessons and I got money for my piano lessons! Plus, we got a package of information and a certificate. This is just terrific, and we were both so excited and surprised. Apparently, Mommy had applied for these grants over the summer. What a smart and kind idea. Julia and I will remember our gifts for a long time and now piano will remind me of Daddy too.

A WARM WELCOME

Dear Friends,

Our Military Kids serves a uniquely vulnerable subset of school-aged military youth who often don't have access to military installations or a military community because their parents serve in the National Guard or Reserve or are severely injured service members or Veterans in recovery. Many of our children do not identify as military kids at school or with friends even though they may have a parent deployed for up to 400 days or a parent battling the visible or invisible wounds of war.

Our goal is to instill pride in our children about their parent's military career while also recognizing their service and sacrifice as military kids. When Max chose piano lessons while his Dad was away, he received a Top Secret package from Our Military Kids with dog tags, a patch, a wrist band, a certificate with his name on it, and a $300 check for Max to present to his teacher. He was bursting with self-worth and immediately made the connection between his piano lessons, the savvy of his Mom for finding our organization, and a love for his Dad whose deployment made the grant possible. The same is true of Sebastian who chose Tae Kwon Do, and Samantha who opted for surfing.

Our most famous alumna is Gabby Douglas who by age 20 had earned three Olympic gold medals! Her father deployed for the second time in 2006 with the Air National Guard. Gabby's mother said: "For our family, the grant made the difference between keeping Gabby home and sending her to camp. This invitation-only camp would play a part in molding her into the Olympic gymnast she is today!"

Whether it's Leon's Ninja classes or Gabby's camp, Our Military Kids grants have a lasting, positive impact on military families. Based on 2019 data with feedback on nearly 3,000 children, 94% reported improvement in overall family well-being due to the activity and 90% reported improvement in the service member's morale and/or recovery. Three out of four children experienced a decrease in psychological stress and other negative symptoms due to Mom or Dad's deployment or recovery.

Since our founding in 2004, we have provided more than 71,000 grants totaling over $28,000,000. Through it all, we have maintained a laser focus on efficient use of our donors' funds resulting in consistent Charity Navigator 4-star ratings and GuideStar's highest platinum rating. Eighty-two percent of every dollar goes directly to grants for military kids.

We are humbled to serve a most deserving group of military children. In the kids' Top Secret package, they also get a pre-addressed, stamped postcard so they can thank YOU, our investors, for your role in sponsoring their activity grant. We hope you enjoy our Impact Report that serves a similar objective — to thank you for your confidence in Our Military Kids to execute on our mission. We couldn't do this important work without you!

Responding to a Global Pandemic

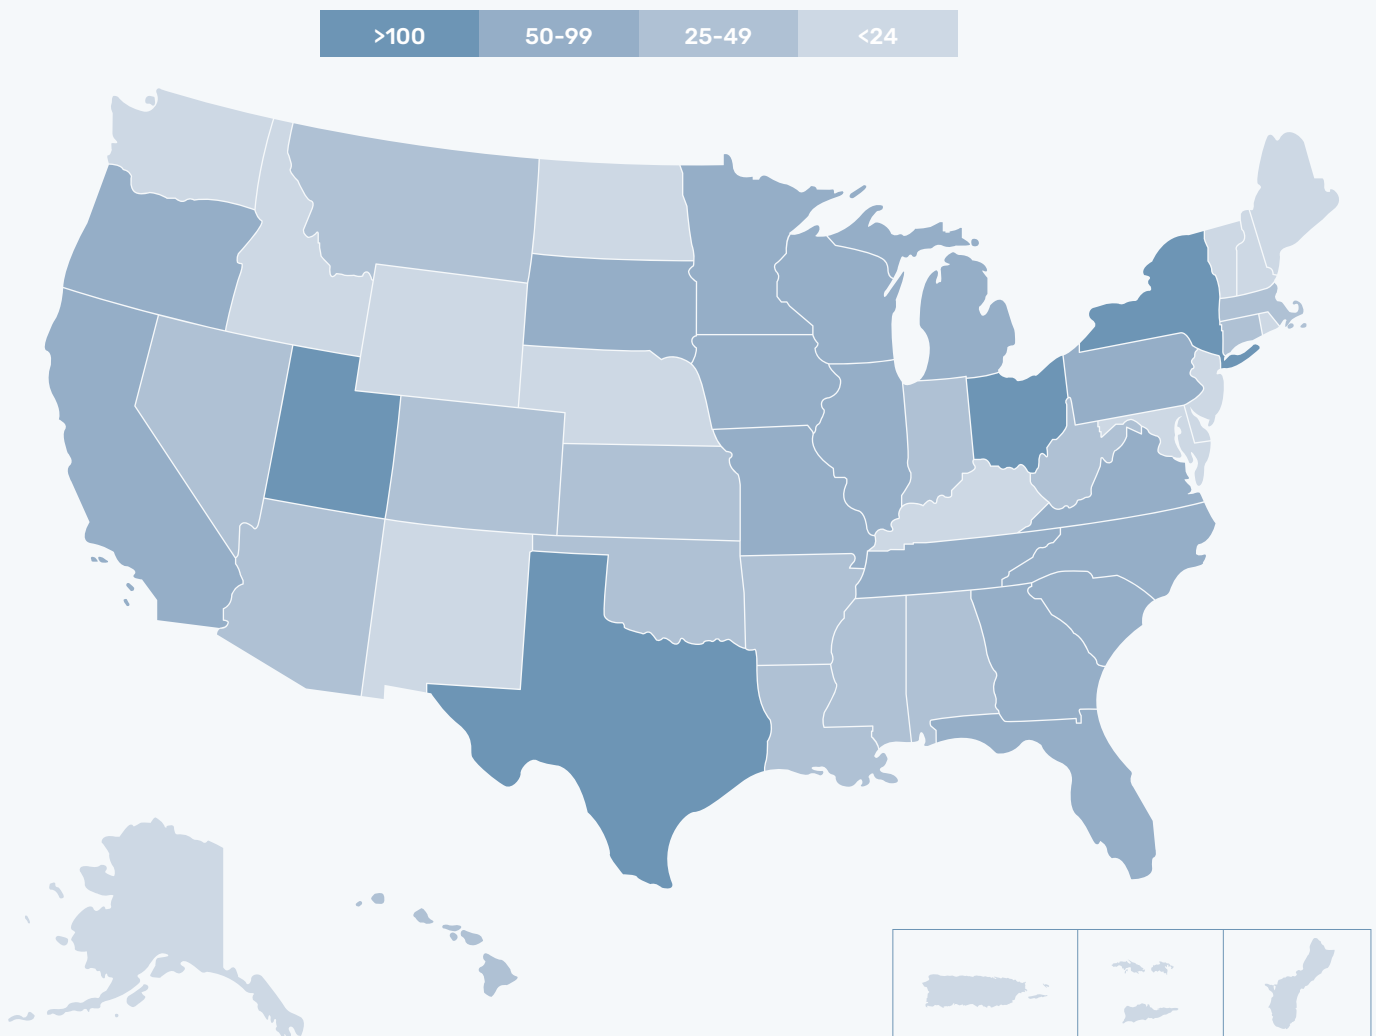

Our Military Kids recognized the additional stress on military children, the uncertainty of online learning, and impact on communities brought about by the current global health crisis. Data from the COVID-19 Military Support Initiative’s Pain Points Poll led Our Military Kids to launch our COVID-19 response.

HONOR120 expands grant eligibility during the 120 days leading to Veteran’s Day 2020, including:

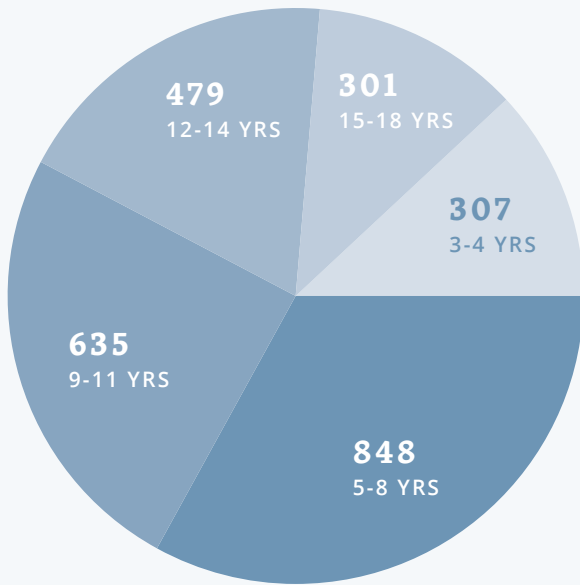

1. Awarding second activity grants to children whose parents are deployed overseas with the National Guard or Reserves for 120 days or more;
2. Introducing grants for children of Guard and Reserve service members who are activated stateside for 120 aggregated days or more in COVID-19 or Southwest Border Patrol missions.
3. Expanding the age-range eligibility for all programs to include three-and-four-year-old children;
4. Offering an extra grant to children of the Severely Injured that doesn’t rely on any specific timing.

Isaiah and Ayjah V.

Cooking Class | U.S. Marine Corps (Ret); Severely Injured Veteran

“ Man, this is so much fun! But I didn't realize how exhausting it is to be on your feet and cooking all day. I appreciate you even more, Mom, for doing the things you do.”

- Isaiah V., 14

“ I know how to make mac 'n cheese from scratch and I'm going to make it every single day! Now you can just relax, Mommy! My brother and I will cook for you!”

- Ayjah V., 12

Alexus H.

Aerobatics | U.S. Army (Ret); Severely Injured Veteran

“ Having social interaction and meeting new kids makes it better. It gives her responsibility, and the ability to try something new and exciting that not everybody does. Without her OMK grant, we wouldn't have been able to afford all of her classes. So that's something we don't have to worry about, either.”

- Alexis' Father, SGT Chris H., US Army (Ret.)

Leon M.

Ninja Classes | Army National Guard, Deployed Overseas

“ Leon, 3, wants to say thank you so much for the wonderful grant that is allowing him to meet friends and learn new skills through Ninja! It gives him something to look forward to each week during Daddy's long deployment! Thank you so much!”

- Leon's Mother, Mariah

Erik H

Sports Conditioning | Army National Guard, Deployed Overseas

“ Erik was really excited, because if it wasn't for the grant, he wasn't going to be able to do sports conditioning, and he really wanted to. We wouldn't have been able to afford it, so this really helped us tremendously.”

- Erik's Mother, Sonya

Elena O.

Orchestra (Violin) | U.S. Navy Reserve, COVID-19 Stateside Activation

“ A few weeks ago, Elena, 11, auditioned for and got accepted into the West Valley Youth Orchestra! Today, she received a scholarship from Our Military Kids to pay for the program fee. She's super excited to meet and play with other violinists her age. Elena received her grant thanks to the new HONOR120 program while her dad is gone serving his COVID-19 orders.”
